NEW YORK EDITORS,-The New York correspondent of the Charleston Courier

The editors of the papers in this city are not generally on very good terms, so-cially. Hardly two of them visit in the same circles. Mr. Bryant, as a poet and literary man, goes into literary circles .-James Brooks, living on the Fifth Avenue, and having a fashionable wife, mixes with what is called "our best society." Mr. Hallock, of the Journal of Commerce, is a Christian, and in all places where bene-volence and religion are interested, he is sure to be present. General Webb, as every body knows, is a gentleman of the old school, highly esteemed and respected where he lives ,(in Tarrytown,) but supposed to dabble too much in polities, and to be a too great frequenter of the lobby.

Horace Greeley seeks, and has no society, unless it be that of persons desiring to make something out of him. He is the most good natured, innocent person in the All grades of society are alike to him. He will stop and converse with the Congressman or the carman alike. His sympathies are with everybody. He is not more carele's in his dress than in his hab. Francis Picard, one of the first white per its. Money is no object to him. Thus far, the Times has greatly the best of the encounter, for it has shown itself an open defender, while the Post has been a skulking assailer, not daring to specify its insinuations, though making great claims to virtue and fearless independence. . .

THE GIRLS OF 1778 .- The following has been rescued from a newspaper published during the Revolution :

"The following droll affair lately happened at Kinderhook, New York. A young fellow, an invetorate enemy to the liberties of America, going to a quilting frolick, where a number of young women were colleeted, and the only man in the company, began his aspersions on Congress, as usual, and held forth some time on the subject, till the girls, exasperated at his impudence, laid hold of him, stripped him naked to the waist, and, instead of tar, covered him with molasses, and for feathers took the downy tops of flags which grow in the meadow, and coated him well, and then let him go. He has prosecuted every one of them, and the matter has been tried before Justice Schoonmaker, We have not as yet heard his worship's judgment. It is said that Parson Buel's daughter is concerned in

OBITUARY.

Miss FRANCIS WELBORN departed this life on Miss Francis wellsom departed this life on the 8th of February, 1859, at the residence of her father, near Glassy Mountain, Pickens Dis-trict, S. C. Francis was the daugitter of Col. W. E. and H. Welborn, aged sixteen years, five months and thirteen days. She was an affec-tionate and an obedient child, amiable in her deportment, possessed of a meck and quiet spir-it; delighted in obedience to her parents; be-loved by all who knew her; but, better than all, she had obeyed the Heavenly injunction— "Remember thy Creator in the days of thy youth," &c. She made a profession of her faith in Christ Jesus in September, 1855, and was Baptised into the fellowship of the Baptist Church of Christ at Big Creek, Anderson District, S. C. by the writer of this notice. She died in full communion with the Church where ever she was known. She has left a bereaved father and mother, brothers and sisters, and many relatives to mount their foss in her death, but they make the communications in the death, but they moirn not as those who have no hope, but rejoice, believing that "their loss is her eternal gain;" and when Christ, who is her life, shall appear, then shall she also appear with him in tilory. Brother and sister, your much loved daughter is gone from the evils to come and rest in hope of a better resurrection, for those who sleep in Jesus will (fod bring with him.—

Phis brief tribute is recorded for the imme-diate consolution of parents overwhelmed and areased by the sudden loss of their first-born— some can appreciate the magnitude of their loss, and the bitterness of their grief, but those who have experienced the same calamity. A bright, satelligent, affectionate boy gave promise of a hopeful fature, and eashrined himself within the inner sanetsary of the parent's hear:s— when, lo f a blight fell on that boy and he with-ered—disappointment and darkness settled on that household—and grief, deep and poignant, ravaged the hearts of parents. The doings of Providence are well nightalways inexplicable, and therefore should never be judged by reason Providence are well nigh always inexplicable, and therefore should never be judged by reason or sense. Beyelation, which alone contains the mind of God, assumes as that God is the disposor—from him cometh only good and perfect gifts. Providence, then, are the dealings of food, as graciously benevolent as they are wonderous wise. How important then to be canbled to say, "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away," for these only can we exclaim. "Blessed be the name of the Lord."
